DEMOCRATS TO GET TOGETHER

Plan Love Feast Tonight; G. O. P. Retains Schorr As Chairman

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, May 23.—Ohio's Democratic nominees for state office, all mutually concerned with ways and means of whipping the Republican foe in November, get together tonight to "promote brotherly love."

Former Gov. Martin L. Davey, the party's nominee for a third term, called the informal meeting but he refused to disclose publicly where it would be held. Informal sources, however, indicated it would take place in a Columbus hotel.

Party harmony has been a negative quantity among Ohio Democrats since the 1938 primary in which Davey was defeated for re-nomination by National Commit-tee man Charles Sawyer.

Davey said he thought tonight's session "to promote brotherly love" would be a good idea.

Schorr Renamed by G. O. P.

Republicans, meanwhile, settled upon Ed D. Schorr to direct the coming campaign. Schorr was elect-

Bob Cafaro Junior High Mibs Champ

A husky, straight-shooting eighth grade student today rules as new king of Junior High school mar-ble-dom.

He is Bob Cafaro, 14-year-old son of Mike Cafara of 251 W. Pershing st.

Bob shot his way to the Junior High school mibs championship this morning, sweeping aside eighth grade opposition before defeating Jack Resatka, seventh grade champion, to win the title.

The eighth grade champion defeated Resatka in straight games, 7-2, 7-0.

Close Competition

Cafaro, a student in 8A, won the eighth grade championship in a playoff with Billy Carlisle of 8D after both boys had won three games and lost one in round-robin competition against other eighth grade room champions.

Carlisle lost to Cafaro in two games, 7-4, 7-3.

A playoff was also necessary to determine the seventh grade champion after round-robin competition between seventh grade room winners ended with Resatka of 7D, Gayle Duffy of 7A and Johnny Parcus of 7B tied with four wins and one defeat each.

Resatka, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Resatka of 969 Arch st., won the seventh-grade playoff, defeating Duffy, 7-2, and Parcus, 7-4.

Resatka displayed steady shooting in winning the seventh grade championship, but lost his "eye" when meeting Cafaro in a best two-out-of-three series for the Junior High title.

Sixth Champ

Cafaro is the sixth school champion to be crowned in The Salem News' fourth annual city marble tournament. Finals at only one school, Reilly, remain to be played before the seven school champions and Dale Schafer, last year's city champion, meet in a playoff to determine who will represent Salem in the district matches at Canton June 8.

The Reilly school finals are expected to be run off tomorrow, providing the weather is favorable.

RECOUNT ASKED BY RAY ADAM IN 33 PRECINCTS

LOST IN AUDITOR RACE BY 83 VOTES

No Salem or Perry Township Precincts To Be Involved

Ray T. Adam of Lisbon, second in a three-man race for county auditor nomination at the Republican primary balloting last week, today filed with the board of elections at East Liverpool a request for a recount of votes.

Adam was defeated by I. J. Vorndran of East Liverpool by a margin of 83 votes. Vorndran polled 5,682, and Adam 4,599, according to the election board's official tabulation.

Adam's recount request does not include any Salem or Perry township precincts.

Thirteen of the 33 precincts in question are in East Liverpool. There are four in Wellsville, and others are listed in Leetonia, East Palestine, Columbiana, St. Clair township, Lisbon, New Waterford, Hanoverton village, Salineville, Madison, Knox, Middleton, Fairfield, West and Yellow creek townships.

In a formal statement accompanying his request for the recount, Adam stressed the fact that his election did not, in the least, question the honesty of precinct workers or election board tabulators. He emphasized that he seeks to determine only whether there might have been error.

The election board will have until June 1 to make the recount. No definite date had been set today. A recount on East Liverpool's relief levy is scheduled for next Tuesday.

Adam's recount request does not include any Salem or Perry township precincts.

BYRNES LASHES AT LINDBERGH

Says He's No More Qualified to Speak Than "Wrong-Way" Corrigan

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 23.—Senator Charles A. Lindbergh last night witheringly lashed the administration for its attitude toward the American people in the present international situation.

The senator's radio speech was regarded as an administration reply to one by the aviator which called for an end to "hysterical chatter of calamity and invasion" and said the course the government had been following "leads to neither strength nor friendship nor peace."

Can He Speak for Hitler?

Recalling that Lindbergh had accepted a decoration from the Nazi government, Byrnes asked: "When Mr. Lindbergh says 'No one wishes to attack us' is he authorized to speak for Hitler or Goering?"

"Can the American people, in the light of recent history, accept the assurance of this young gentleman that if we do not ask for war, it will not come to us?"

"Did China ask for war? Did Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, Norway, Holland, and Belgium ask for war? No, not one of them did. Yet today these nations have been wiped out and their men, women and children slaughtered."

Lindbergh is no more qualified to offer advice on America's foreign policy, Byrnes asserted, "than is 'Wrong Way' Corrigan or any other aviator who may fly the Atlantic ocean."

Admits Arms Needed

Turning to the aviator's statements that there had been "hysterical chatter of calamity and invasion" and that a "definite policy" of defense was needed, Byrnes said: "Even Mr. Lindbergh at the end of his hysterical protest against other people becoming hysterical about our national defense program, admitted that 'we need a greater air force, a greater army and a greater navy' and nowhere indicated in what respect the President's program is defective."

He declared that England and France had been lulled into a false sense of security by men expressing the same international philosophy which Lindbergh voiced in his radio speech Sunday night.

"Fifth columns are already active in America," Byrnes continued.

FRENCH ARMIES BATTLE TO CUT NAZI SPEARHEAD

Cambrai and Valenciennes Area Scene of Bitter Fighting

HOPE TO SLASH GERMAN POCKET

Government Decides To Retain Administrative Base In Paris

(By Associated Press) PARIS, May 23.—The French armies, effecting what foreign military experts called a "miracle of reorganization," fought today with new fury to rout the northern and central armies and chop off the long, sharp spearhead which the Germans have driven through northern France to the sea.

Poeketed with their British and Belgian allies, the central French army, using tanks, planes, motorized units and artillery, engaged the Germans in a bitter see-saw battle between Cambrai and Valenciennes, 25 miles apart.

Attempt to Tighten Sack

Here, at the base of their long southern salient which extends northwest to the Abbeville coastal region, the Germans attacked to make tighter and smaller the sack in which they are holding the Allied forces of Flanders (estimated by the Germans at between 500,000 and 1,000,000 men).

The battle jockeyed back and forth along the Scheldt river, with temporary advantages for both sides. At one point the French, a military spokesman said, fought their way down to the outskirts of Cambrai, territory from which they had been pushed earlier in the week by Nazi armored columns volleying west.

France's army, striking back at the night of Adolf Hitler's activities, London police invaded the headquarters of Fascist Leader Sir Oswald Mosley and arrested a man and a woman. The arrest of

E. Palestine Holds To Ranking As City

EAST PALESTINE, May 23.—East Palestine's population has decreased by 115, according to a report on the 16th census, recently completed here. The new total is 5,100.

The total in 1930 was 5,215. The 1920 total here was 5,750.

The new figure gives the city a small margin of only 100 people over the city classification set by the state at 5,000. A city form of government was adopted here in 1920 when the population was skyrocketed to 5,750 by the location of several large rubber companies and other industries here.

The gradual decrease of industrial activity here is said to be the major cause for the smaller population, although officials believe that the present total is an increase over that of about four years ago, due to the operation of large coal stripping projects in this section.

Police Hit At 'Fifth Column'; Four Arrested

Capt. Ramsay, Parliament Member, Sir Oswald Mosley in Custody; Fighting Only 26 Miles Away From English Coast

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, May 23.—Britain fought for her life today "in fearful danger" of German steel slashing its way through British soldiers to the English channel, a possible attack through Ireland and a "fifth column" at home.

In the shortest parliamentary war statement he has ever made—two minutes—Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons that there is heavy fighting in the channel coastal area of Boulogne, only 26 miles from Folkestone, England; that Abbeville, France, is in German hands and that British communications are endangered.

A statement that the governments of Britain and Ireland (Eire) both are "alive to the possibilities" of an invasion of Britain through Ireland was made by Clement R. Attlee, lord privy seal, in the house of commons.

From Dublin came a warning by Ireland's deputy prime minister, Sean O'Kelly, that Ireland would not let anyone "try to take advantage of the disunity of our people to exploit this country for the advantage of some other country."

Hitting at possible "fifth column" activities, London police invaded the headquarters of Fascist Leader Sir Oswald Mosley and arrested a man and a woman. The arrest of Capt. Archibald H. M. Ramsay, conservative member of parliament, was announced in commons. Mosley later went to Scotland Yard in custody of police.

Prime Minister Churchill said it "is too early yet" to say what the result of the coastal fighting may be but declared it "evidently carries with it implications of a serious character."

Evidence Seen In Nazi Drive Of Assault Soon On Britain

(By Associated Press) BERLIN, May 23.—Germany's drive to divide and destroy Allied armies in the west produced new evidence today of an imminent assault on England herself.

Adolf Hitler's power-diving stuka bombers and darting speedboats collaborated in a small channel communications to provide the most visible signs of the offensive.

Cross Scheldt River

German land forces, meanwhile, crashed southward across the Scheldt river in the relentless closing of a vise of men and machines on more than a half-million Allied soldiers, cut off from the main French forces to the south.

The Nazi air force reported it had heavily bombed the channel ports of Dover and Dunkerque and severely damaged three transports, one tanker and a destroyer in the channel.

The German high command said that the attack over the Scheldt river was "slowly winning ground against heavy enemy resistance."

The British expeditionary force acknowledged that Germans had broken through its positions along the Scheldt river, effecting a crossing near Audenarde, in Belgium west of Brussels.

The Nazi airmen, in close collaboration with the vice-like move-

ITALY'S DECISION

It is a circumstance worth nothing that popular opinion in the United States is stirred almost as deeply by the "realism" of Italian policy regarding the war as by the ruthless belligerence of Germany, its ally. There is nothing admirable about Italy's drum beating.

There is a sound rational basis for indignation, consisting chiefly of conviction that Premier Mussolini's much advertised "realism" led him irrevocably to the brink of a bad decision. Italy, as Americans see it, is not going to reap the fruits but the whirlwind of its leader's pro-German policy.

Whereas the belligerence of Germany might have been curbed by Italian refusal to encourage it in the years before the war started, a decision to try to profit by it by joining the war on Germany's side will make Italy just one more victim of Nazi duplicity. There is no reason to believe the result of the alliance will be anything but disastrous for Italy, regardless of how the war turns out.

If Germany wins, Italy will be a satellite of greater Germany; that is known in advance from the plan under which Europe would be reconstructed. Italy's sole hope of retaining its national independence was to resist the power which admittedly has no respect for weaker powers. Yet, for reasons known to himself and unknown to his own people, Premier Mussolini has chosen to align Italy with the side from which it has no hope to gain. His overworked grudge against the Allies for the way Italy was treated at the peace treaty after the World war has never taken into account the vital fact that if Germany happened to dictate the terms of peace following this war Italy would have no assurance of being treated half so well.

The theoretical weakness of dictatorships is the unreasonable power given one fallible man to make momentous decisions. In the case of Italy, it is a weakness being made evident by actual experience in a time of stress. Without idealism, without even shrewd cynicism, Italy is driving a bad bargain. It is not strong enough to stand the consequences of helping Germany win the war; its only chance was to join the Allies.

THE PROBABILITIES

Apparent concentration of Germany's striking power on the drive to the segment of the French coast facing Dover develops the second of the two major probabilities of the war. London has been made a twin objective with Paris.

If successful, the drive would place the German war machine within actual shelling distance of England, across the Straits of Dover. It would bring the British navy into vital importance; the Straits of Dover are the navy's ultimate and greatest responsibility. Harassment of southern England from the air would follow German seizure of the French coast. Unless Allied striking power could be rallied in Belgium, it would amount to encirclement of France on the North, giving the French army two fronts to defend—a northern and western front.

As observers understand the strategy of the Nazi offensive, it is to paralyze either Paris or London, or both. First probability of the war, as it unfolded last week and still is unfolding, is a furious assault on Paris. The second probability has unfolded simultaneously; new implements of aggression may make it possible to reach the French coast, something Germany hesitated to attempt in its previous effort to dominate Europe and failed to accomplish when it finally did make the attempt.

Simultaneous drives on the two capitals will take every ounce of energy the aggressor can muster. As Prime Minister Churchill pointed out in his public statement last Sunday, it is not to be imagined that two well armed, vigorous nations can be shattered in a matter of days, weeks or months. For Germany, time is the essence of its dream of shattering the Allies with a quick blow. It is equally the essence of the Allied hope of wearing out the German war machine before it has reached its objectives. The story of the new World war will not be long in the telling. Germany will win within a few weeks, or settle down to a slow and miserable defeat by progressive exhaustion of its fighting strength. The shape of the war is no mystery, least of all to Adolf Hitler.

INTERVENTION INSURANCE

Best United States protection against direct intervention in the European war is the day by day story of its progress. The lesson is too plain to be misunderstood.

It is a war of highly specialized equipment. The United States is almost wholly unprepared to engage in such a war at present, and thanks to the candor of its public officials and the enterprise of its agencies of information the deficiency is general information.

Intensification of the national armament program is designed to overcome the deficiency in time to project the United States from any possibility of successful invasion and to keep map changers at bay in the American hemisphere. But here again it is no secret that at best the armament program will not be effectual for a matter of several years at least. Germany, with war its sole purpose, armed for seven years. Intervention, which formerly was viewed as a matter of desire, has become, instead, a matter of capability.

From the Allied point of view, if it be assumed that Germany's so far insuperable advantage in equipment and methods inevitably must diminish as the equipment wears out and is destroyed, the United States would be most useful as a source of material supply. Whatever actual danger resides in current rumblings of an American war party in formation is discounted heavily by the hard fact that it is not a war party the Allies want, but assurance of access to a market capable of furnishing whatever equipment can be spared from the United States armament drive.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, May 24

STEADY PROGRESS may be looked for in this day, judging by the lunar aspects, which favor the stability of the fortunes and the happy culminations of social, domestic or romantic hopes and desires. While there may be much stirring in the personal affiliations, with a caste of the perplexing, intriguing and perhaps mysterious, yet the solid status of affairs are to be enhanced by industry, diligence, sound judgment and perhaps rewards of labor and fidelity in responsible trusts.

Those whose birthday it is may look with high hopes and confidence for a year in which solid and enduring rewards for labor, steadfastness and loyalty may be visible.

A child born on this day may be endowed with all the solid qualities for success and satisfaction enhanced and enriched by a gracious gift for social, domestic and emotional balance and happiness.

We note by the paper that Hitler has already picked out the place in which the peace treaty is to be signed. Well, if the Allies will now come forward and insist that he put his name on the dotted line, all will be well—maybe.

Clendening Is Partial To Coffee—The American Way

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TEA, LIKE coffee, increases the rate and strength of the heart; it causes mental stimulation because the blood flows through the brain faster, and it causes elimination through the kidneys by increasing blood flow there.

Personally, I prefer coffee and only drink tea in those countries where coffee is an undrinkable beverage. The cup of slop they give you in some countries and call coffee is something that a little boy would make to play a joke on his grandmother. On ships returning from Europe in the old days, there used to come a look over the faces of the Americans about the second day out which we called the "coffee look." They were returning to the land which was to them not only the land of freedom, but the land of coffee.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

A Coffee Legend

Tea is a somewhat more aristocratic drink than coffee; at least, it has a longer heredity, and was drunk in China so long ago that there are few legends about its origin.

For those who think it is a harmful beverage, the legend that was introduced by a Chinese emperor, who was called the Divine Healer, may be comforting. An old Chinese book says that "It is good for tumors, or abscesses that come about the head and for ailments of the bladder; it dissipates heat caused by phlegms or inflammation of the chest; it quenches thirst; it lessens the desire for sleep."

The Dutch brought tea to Europe about 1410, a few years before coffee.

Sidney Smith said: "I am glad I was not born before tea," but that is a British opinion. He has never tasted a cup of American coffee.

Reader: "What would you advise for a person who has eczema that is brought on by contact with strong soap, turpentine or paint? Can this be cured by any kind of diet?"

Answer: No. Obviously it is a contact form of eczema. The way to prevent it is to use rubber gloves if it is necessary to come in contact with the offending substances.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often
Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, pines under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Mrs. Cecil Hale, social committee chairman, Mrs. George Theiss, Mrs. William Bodendorfer, Mrs. Andrew Drotloff and Mrs. Ori Ratter gave a report of the recent Mother-Daughter banquet; Mrs. Ratter told of the work of the sick committee; and in the absence of Mrs. Simon Theiss, chairman, Mrs. W. J. Seaman reported on the membership activities.

A play to be presented by the ladies and a coverd picnic dinner were discussed, the dates and details of arrangements to be announced later.

The topic, "Medical Missions in India," was in charge of Mrs. John Theiss.

Mrs. Michael Nicora and Mrs. Charles Smith were hostesses.

Mrs. Matt Eckhardt and Mrs. Bauman will be hostesses at the next meeting on June 26.

F.D.R. ASKED TO DROP 3RD TERM

But Landon's Challenge
Fails To Bring Out
Declaration

WASHINGTON, May 23.—A challenge from Alf M. Landon that President Roosevelt renounce a third term if he wants Republicans to join a coalition defense administration drew this White House retort today:

"The President regrets that he has no time, just now, to give to the preparation of political statements."

Landon declared after a long conference with Mr. Roosevelt yesterday that "political implications" were inescapable in any coalition set-up and that Republicans "can and will participate" only if the President eliminates himself as a 1940 candidate.

In handing his statement to the press, the 1936 Republican presidential nominee said that it could "not be linked" with his meeting with the chief executive as nothing in it was mentioned in their talk.

Advocates National Council

Declaring that the present European situation was bound to have "serious implications even for this country," Landon advocated a national council of "leaders and experts in their own fields, the members of which are not merely administration satellites," as desirable to head the defense program.

"But unfortunately for the country," he added, "the leadership is in the hands of a man who has not eliminated himself as a candidate for an indefinite term as president, who at the moment has pledged to him more than enough delegates to take the Democratic nomination if he wants it."

If the President is interested in "unselfish service" from Republicans, he said, he should "publicly and forthwith eliminate himself as a third term candidate."

"Instead of weakening his position, this action would strengthen it. The President would become the leader of the nation instead of the head of a party."

Early Issues Reply

After the President was shown a copy of the statement, his press secretary, Stephen Early, issued a formal reply.

"He (the President) is too busily engaged with problems of far greater national importance," it said.

"He is, however, very grateful to the ex-governor of Kansas who was his luncheon guest today, for his suggestions contained in the statement the governor has written for the press."

"None of the subjects mentioned by Mr. Landon in his statement were discussed with the President at the luncheon, except only the seriousness of the military situation in Europe. The President was very glad to receive Mr. Landon."

Wasted Effort

SCRANTON, Pa.—Picks, shovels

In an effort to gain entrance, they tunneled under a wall, then

It didn't work. They finally got something frightened them and they fled—empty handed.

ed unanimously to a sixth term as chairman of the party's state central and executive committees.

Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, Republican U. S. senatorial candidate, called the committee's attention to the "widespread disapproval of the action of the state chairman during the recent primary campaign" but urged the group to organize for the "party's progress" instead of "personal considerations."

Burton was nominated despite Schorr's personal opposition.

The committee decided to wait until after the national convention to decide whether to recommend that the legislature separate the state and national ballots in November.

Postponement of both national conventions was suggested by former Gov. James M. Cox in an edi-

Cox, Democratic presidential nominee in 1920, declared that the Republican party at its June 24 meeting "may face conditions so unpredictable that writing a plat-

would be absurd."

The CAIRO GARTER MURDERS By VAN WYCK MASON

CHAPTER XXXIII
Some furious epithets flattered on Moira's lips and in quivering outrage she glared up. "What was that?"

It was then North risked the most vital bluff of his career—a bluff based on nothing more than clear, hard deduction and shrewd intuition. "You may as well know that your playmate Stag will very shortly be cold turkey. In other words, he's going to be knocked off."

"Bah!" Moira glowered defiance. "It's a cheap bluff." "I'm not bluffing, Moira. You ought to know me by this time."

"I do," she blazed. "You're the biggest bluffer I ever met. You don't know where he is or what he's doing!"

"Maybe not just now, but I will. It would be better for him if I did know now though."

"Better for the police you mean! You'll never get him."

"Well, now it would be better for Stag if the police got him."

"What do you mean by that?" she demanded.

"I mean, Moira, that the police would be easier on Melhorne than"—he drew a long breath and took the supreme gamble—"Hasid's men."

She flushed over so little, otherwise giving no indication whether North's shaft had been well sped.

"I'm afraid Hasid's men are going to be pretty mean to Stag," he added. "After all, this so-called Armstrong, whom I presume to be your boss, has been so tough on business rivals you really can't blame them."

"Oh, stop!" she begged, averting her face. "You're making this up—it's all best I know it is!"

"Are you so very certain?" Inexorable, he leaned forward. "If you really love Stag, you'd better take no chances on it, Moira. I'm afraid they're going to hurt your boy friend pretty badly when they get him, because they know where Stag's shipment is going to be landed."

An incredulous laugh burst from lips which had begun quivering. "You're making all this up. And why shouldn't you? You're pretty clever—have been all along. A copper, indeed! You've fooled every one—even me. I suppose there isn't any Lyda?"

"There is, and she's going to follow the orders you've given me, but as soon as she enters Egyptian territorial waters, a British destroyer will check on her movements. Unfortunately Hasid knows where Melhorne's stuff is going to be landed."

"Hasid? Bah! How could you know he knows the landing points?" In the interest of drama North delayed a moment ere he said quietly: "Remember when we first met? You were gunning for Hasid. Well, Hasid learned about it and, not unnaturally, was grateful that I had saved him from your charming attentions. He knows, of course, I've signed up with your boss—his rival."

Quite deliberately North flicked the ash from his cigarette onto the compartment's floor.

"Well? Go on," Moira prompted.

"Well, this afternoon he called me," he pursued his bluff, "not knowing, of course, I'm only a phony munitions agent. He warned me not to go through with my deal—said he'd spare me what Melhorne's going to get for butting in on his territory."

Moira's teeth momentarily gripped her lower lip and a stricken look flitted over her face. "But how can he know where Stag's going to deliver?"

Convincing in his straightforwardness North answered: "It's very simple; Hasid has a man aboard S-ag's ship—one of the officers."

The girl's face crumpled, looked colorless like a Chinese lantern with its tangle blown out. "And—Hasid's men are going to ambush the landing?"

"Unless the police get there in time to stop a pretty bloody mess."

Though not in the least relishing his task, North went on: "It isn't a pretty prospect for Stag is it? But if the opposition gets him it'll be just too bad. Now if I knew where Stag is going to direct the unloading, I'd be able to save him. Think of Stag—with his feet tied over a charcoal brazier and some pal of Hasid's pouring hot oil over them. Even if he came through alive, he'd be a cripple."

"You devil! You devil!" Moira choked. "Hasid doesn't know any—" thing. This is all a dreadful lie. If only I could be sure."

Abruptly he varied his form of persuasion. "Of course you're not sure, Moira, but you dare not risk turning me down."

"You've got me!" she cried in a hoarse whisper. "You may be bluffing, but I can't take the chance. I won't tell you who my boss—the man the police call Armstrong—is, but—but I can't let Stag be hurt."

"It's up to you, my dear," North said. "Will you tell me the point of rendezvous?"

She swallowed nervously. "I myself don't know where the shipment is to go, but—but just before the train left I was given some instructions for a man in Port Said for Stag."

Only by a major effort of will power did Hugh North suppress his overwhelming impatience and said:

"What do you mean by that?" she demanded.

"I mean, Moira, that the police would be easier on Melhorne than"—he drew a long breath and took the supreme gamble—"Hasid's men."

She flushed over so little, otherwise giving no indication whether North's shaft had been well sped.

"Well, this afternoon he called me," he pursued his bluff, "not knowing, of course, I'm only a phony munitions agent. He warned me not to go through with my deal—said he'd spare me what Melhorne's going to get for butting in on his territory."

Moira's teeth momentarily gripped her lower lip and a stricken look flitted over her face. "But how can he know where Stag's going to deliver?"

Convincing in his straightforwardness North answered: "It's very simple; Hasid has a man aboard S-ag's ship—one of the officers."

The girl's face crumpled, looked colorless like a Chinese lantern with its tangle blown out. "And—Hasid's men are going to ambush the landing?"

"Unless the police get there in time to stop a pretty bloody mess."

Though not in the least relishing his task, North went on: "It isn't a pretty prospect for Stag is it? But if the opposition gets him it'll be just too bad. Now if I knew where Stag is going to direct the unloading, I'd be able to save him. Think of Stag—with his feet tied over a charcoal brazier and some pal of Hasid's pouring hot oil over them. Even if he came through alive, he'd be a cripple."

"You devil! You devil!" Moira choked. "Hasid doesn't know any—" thing. This is all a dreadful lie. If only I could be sure."

Abruptly he varied his form of persuasion. "Of course you're not sure, Moira, but you dare not risk turning me down."

"You've got me!" she cried in a hoarse whisper. "You may be bluffing, but I can't take the chance. I won't tell you who my boss—the man the police call Armstrong—is, but—but I can't let Stag be hurt."

"It's up to you, my dear," North said. "Will you tell me the point of rendezvous?"

She swallowed nervously. "I myself don't know where the shipment is to go, but—but just before the train left I was given some instructions for a man in Port Said for Stag."

Only by a major effort of will power did Hugh North suppress his overwhelming impatience and said:

"What do you mean by that?" she demanded.

"I mean, Moira, that the police would be easier on Melhorne than"—he drew a long breath and took the supreme gamble—"Hasid's men."

She flushed over so little, otherwise giving no indication whether North's shaft had been well sped.

"I'm afraid Hasid's men are going to be pretty mean to Stag," he added. "After all, this so-called Armstrong, whom I presume to be your boss, has been so tough on business rivals you really can't blame them."

"Oh, stop!" she begged, averting her face. "You're making this up—it's all best I know it is!"

"Are you so very certain?" Inexorable, he leaned forward. "If you really love Stag, you'd better take no chances on it, Moira. I'm afraid they're going to hurt your boy friend pretty badly when they get him, because they know where Stag's shipment is going to be landed."

An incredulous laugh burst from lips which had begun quivering. "You're making all this up. And why shouldn't you? You're pretty clever—have been all along. A copper, indeed! You've fooled every one—even me. I suppose there isn't any Lyda?"

"There is, and she's going to follow the orders you've given me, but as soon as she enters Egyptian territorial waters, a British destroyer will check on her movements. Unfortunately Hasid knows where Melhorne's stuff is going to be landed."

"Hasid? Bah! How could you know he knows the landing points?" In the interest of drama North delayed a moment ere he said quietly: "Remember when we first met? You were gunning for Hasid. Well, Hasid learned about it and, not unnaturally, was grateful that I had saved him from your charming attentions. He knows, of course, I've signed up with your boss—his rival."

Quite deliberately North flicked the ash from his cigarette onto the compartment's floor.

"Well? Go on," Moira prompted.

"Well, this afternoon he called me," he pursued his bluff, "not knowing, of course, I'm only a phony munitions agent. He warned me not to go through with my deal—said he'd spare me what Melhorne's going to get for butting in on his territory."

Moira's teeth momentarily gripped her lower lip and a stricken look flitted over her face. "But how can he know where Stag's going to deliver?"

Convincing in his straightforwardness North answered: "It's very simple; Hasid has a man aboard S-ag's ship—one of the officers."

The girl's face crumpled, looked colorless like a Chinese lantern with its tangle blown out. "And—Hasid's men are going to ambush the landing?"

"Unless the police get there in time to stop a pretty bloody mess."

Secretary Hull Calm, Collected During Meetings

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 23.—Secretary Hull, emerging from a conference with the British and French ambassadors, came to tell him that their world is on fire, appears just as calm as he did 12 years ago eating his lunch among a pile of books in his old quarters at the house office building.

His hair is whiter, his face fuller, his eyes graver. But his hands show not a tremor as he rests them on a chair back and faces the corps of correspondents for his regular press conference. He speaks just as calmly of the war developments as he used to about a tariff on wool.

Face Is Serious
No note of levity creeps into the conference, however. Hull's face is serious. So are those of his questioners. He stands behind a chair at the end of a table in a long, high-ceilinged room. Michael J. McDermott, the state department's press chief, veteran of many international emergencies and conferences, stand beside him, unsmiling.

Secretary Hull opens the conference with:
"I don't know anything that I can tell you. Do you have any questions?"

There are questions about what war comes from Holland, from Belgium, about the removal of refugees, about the reaction of South American countries, and about the morning visits of the British and French ambassadors.

The questions are all asked by American correspondents. The English, German, Japanese and other foreign reporters simply stand by and take notes. They do the same at President Roosevelt's press conferences.

Hull's responses provide little information but his manner is friendly.

His five predecessors in the office gaze down from oily canvases.

Henry L. Stimson is back of him. Charles Evans Hughes is to his right. Frank B. Kellogg, Bainbridge Colby and Robert Lansing face him. The latter two reach back to that other great war in the administration of Woodrow Wilson.

Farmers In Favor Of Strip Cropping

LISBON, May.—In Columbiana county where most of the farms are more or less rolling, and many hill fields must be farmed, strip cropping is fast becoming the most effective means of preventing erosion and increasing fertility of the soil, according to County Agent Floyd Lower.

"The time has come when all farmers must adopt strip cropping methods if they intend to maintain the fertility of their farms," he said, "because sheet erosion of top soil which is not noticeable to farmers until the washing of gullies starts, has practically denuded farms of fertile top soils, but through the use of certified seed, fertilizers and the latest methods of cultivation advocated by the county extension service, farmers have managed to maintain a production level, indicating a loss in fertility when these methods fail to increase production.

Strip cropping, introduced in the county in 1938 when the CCC was camped just west of Lisbon, when many farms were first laid out for strip farming as a conservation measure. Since the abandonment of the camp the work of laying out farms for this purpose has been assumed by County Agent Lower and his assistant, John Strausbaugh, who cooperated with 10 farmers this spring in the laying out of their land for strip cropping.

Rockets Figured To Win Ohio Conference Meet Again

BOWLING GREEN, May 23.—Toledo university was favored today to retain its track-field championship Friday and Saturday in the 38th annual of the Ohio conference meet, with three men bearing the point-winning burden for the Rockets.

The meet, better known as the "Big Six," has attracted entrants from 18 Ohio colleges and universities, all members of the conference.

The Toledo stars are Don Young, defending champion in the 880-yard run, and the state's outstanding quarter-mile; Jake Chandler, regarded as a certain winner of the two hurdle titles, and a threat in the long jump, and Henry (Jabbo) Giles, shot-putter who still holds the state high school record.

Leading Threats

Baldwin-Wallace, Oberlin, Case and Wooster appear the best bets for runner-up honors, with Bowling Green rated as the dark horse. Other schools entered are Ashland, Findlay, Denison, Capital, Heidelberg, Kent State, Kenyon, Mount Union, Muskingum, Ohio Northern, Otterbein and Wittenberg.

Holding the spotlight is the toughest race on the slate—the two-mile run. Gil Dodds of Ashland will defend his title.

Preliminaries are scheduled Friday afternoon, with the finals Saturday afternoon. The annual Ohio conference meeting is slated Friday evening.

FREE HITTING OFFERED FANS

American Association Is Featuring Plenty Of Hits

(By Associated Press)

The fans who prefer free-hitting baseball are getting their money's worth in this season's American Association race.

In four games last night association clubs scored 52 runs and piled up an even 80 hits in a program which saw almost a score of pitchers in action.

The league-leading Kansas City Blues downed Milwaukee, 10 to 5. Kansas City collected 13 hits off four Brewer Flingers, while Milwaukee got eight safeties.

Get 17 Hits

Minneapolis defeated St. Paul, 12 to 5, as Red Evans held St. Paul to eight hits. Minneapolis garnered 17 safeties off three flingers.

Louisville scored 10 runs on 12 hits to defeat Indianapolis 10 to 5, even though the Indians' hit total was 13. This game saw six hurriers in action.

The only close game was the Toledo-Columbus clash, which ended with Columbus winning, 3 to 2. Harry Kimberlin allowed the Red Birds only five hits as Dickson pitched four-hit ball for the victors. The game was errorless.

Bulldogs Lose To Yostmen, 8-3

Held to six hits, Tyson's Bulldogs dropped an 8-3 decision to Yost's Corners of Alliance in a softball game at the Blackburn Hill field yesterday.

The Alliance team, pounding out 10 hits, scored two runs in the second inning, four in the third, one in the fourth and one in the sixth. Tyson's tallied once in the fourth frame and twice in the sixth.

The Bulldogs will face the Owls Club of Alliance at 6 p. m. today at the Blackburn Hill field.

Breezy Briets Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, May 23.—The educated Prof. Moe Berg of the Red Sox follows the international situation closely. So when the Sox had an off day in Detroit, he hopped over to Canada to give conditions a quick once over. Ken Overlin has bet $400 of his own dough against $1,000 he beats Ceferino Garcia in the Garden tonight. Since Henry Armstrong has been coaching Overlin, Garcia has asked the boxing commission to warn Ken against thumping and butting. When the Cubs tried to get Eddie Miller, the Bees told 'em the price was 100,000 smackers and they could take it or leave it.

Grand Slam

In the year just completed, East Denver High school teams were champs in football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis, golf and swimming. P. S.—They finished second in wrestling.

Cheer Up

We should worry and we should fret.

Those Yankees will get going yet. Add a leg injury to Bill Dickey's long list of woes. As the Yanks were riding from Cleveland to Detroit Tuesday night, some lug hurled a rock through the train window, spraying Babe Dahlgren with splinters. John Drebing, Jr., Penn's ace miler, is on the sidelines with a bad throat and is out for the balance of the season. Wolves, rare animals in Comiskey park, are howling at the White Sox.

Major League Teams Produce Close Battles For First Place

LEAGUE RACES UNCERTAIN AS THE WEATHER

Cincinnati Chances Depend On Derringer Coming Back

BY JUDON BAILEY

There was a time that the National League pennant chase looked like a runaway. First the Brooklyn Dodgers won nine straight and looked hotter than a four-alarm fire. Then the Cincinnati Reds gave the appearance of running for a ten-games lead by July 4.

The result was inevitable, of course. The senior circuit is having its customary brawl for the lead and today the Dodgers and Reds are tied with 18 games won and eight lost.

Another Battle

The America League is having nearly as desperate a dispute for first place between the Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians.

The baseball situation, in short, still is as uncertain as the weather. Cincinnati's chances depend considerably on big Paul Derringer, who suddenly has changed from an exclamation point to a question mark. The only reason he lasted the route yesterday, as the New York Giants beat Cincinnati 6-4, was the great faith, hope and charity of Manager Bill McKechnie.

Fat Freddy Fitzsimmons led the Dodgers to a 3-1 decision over the pitiful Pittsburgh Pirates, giving only six hits and pitching shutout ball after the first.

These were the only games the weather allowed in the National League. A scheduled night game between the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia was reset for tonight.

Top Red Sox

Cleveland took first blood in its series with the Red Sox, winning 9-6 on home runs by Hal Trosky, Roy Weatherly and Ken Keltner.

The Yankees continued their assault on all kinds of pitching, (except good) with a 16-hit bombardment that wrecked the Detroit Tigers 8-2. Babe Danlgren had a home-run and four singles. Rookie Marvin Breuer held the Tigers to six hits. This was the fifth victory in the last seven games for the world champions.

The Chicago White Sox, who hadn't won a game in their own park until Monday, now have won three straight including a 10-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday. Chicago piled up 18 hits while Lefty Ed Smith held his ex-mates to seven.

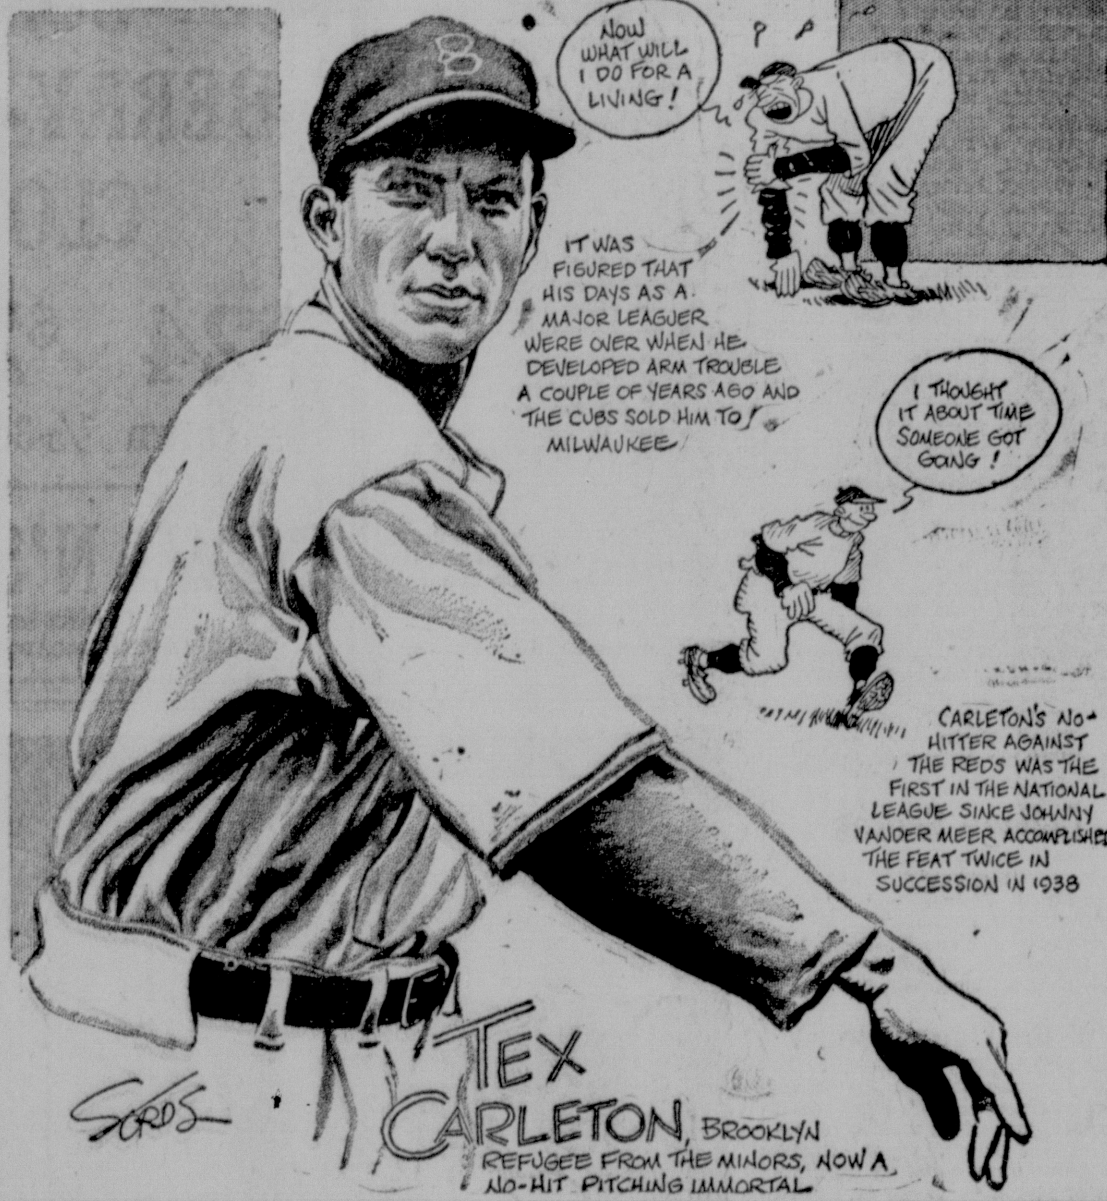

Another seven hit pitching performance, this one by Southpaw Ken Chase, brought the Washington Senators a 9-2 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

Steubenville Woman Leads Ohio Medal Play Tourney

Dorothy Gardner Holds Five-Stroke Edge As Tournament Enters Final Round

CANTON, May 23.—Miss Dorothy Gardner of Steubenville held a five-stroke gross lead today as the Ohio women's medal golf tournament went into the final 18 holes.

Miss Gardner, one of the state's leading women golfers for many years, fired a three-over-par 78 in the first round yesterday. Her 78-6-72 also took the low net lead.

Forty women are competing in the event, being conducted in three flights on a handicap basis, at Brookside Country club. Low gross and low net prizes will be awarded in each flight.

Held annually for several years at Granville, the tournament was revived this season after a lapse of a year. Mrs. Burt Weil of Cincinnati, the 1938 winner, is not competing.

Holding second place in both net and gross divisions at the end of 18 holes was Miss Molly Lou Connolly of Cleveland Mayfield. She turned in 41-42-83-7-76.

Miss Gardner shot two birdie fours on the front nine but slipped to 41 with a two over par six on No. 8. She came back with an eagle three on the 14th and birdied the 16th, equalling par on the back nine.

National Champion Adds Ohio Golf Crown To String

TOLEDO, May 23.—Byron Nelson stuffed Ohio's top golf prize in his bag today and started preparations for defense of his National Open title in Cleveland next month.

The new Toledo Inverness pro beat par by four strokes and his nearest opponent by two in posting 284 for the 72-hole Ohio Open tournament at Sylvania Country club.

Tony Penna, Dayton veteran, finished second with 143-71-72-286. Defending Champion Billy Burke of Cleveland was two strokes farther back, where he was tied with Phil Perkins of Cleveland.

Ravenna Will Have Conservation Post

COLUMBUS, May 23.—The third of seven district conservation offices will open next Tuesday at Ravenna, with Bert B. Cannell of Cuyahoga county in charge. Conservation Commissioner Don Waters said today.

Cannell formerly served as game protector in Cuyahoga county. The new district will take in Stark, Columbiana, Mahoning, Portage, Summit, Cuyahoga, Geauga, Lake, Ashtabula and Trumbull counties.

former British amateur titleholder. Nelson shot even par for the final 36 holes with 144, his 140 from Tuesday allowing him to clip regulation figures for the four rounds. The national champion earned $250 and a trophy.

Marshall Carlson, captain of the University of Toledo team, led the amateur entries with 296.

DERRINGER IS NEW PROBLEM TO M'KECHNIE

Big Kentuckian Doesn't Seem To Be Able To Get Going

NEW YORK, May 23.—The Cincinnati Reds, who have been doing pretty well for a club that was supposed to play dead after the 1939 world series, nevertheless have a serious problem on their hands.

It's Paul Derringer, the big Kentuckian who won 25 games last year but can't seem to get going this year. Only yesterday he blew a three-run lead and the New York Giants took the game, 6 to 4.

This gave him a record of four defeats against three victories and marked the first time in ages that he's been under the .500 level.

Paul has pitched one bang-up game this year—the opener against the Chicago Cubs. Since then he has been good and bad.

Allows More Walks

Last year he walked just 36 men in 38 games. This year he's given 21 bases on balls already. Paul also has allowed 63 hits, 23 more than anybody else. Bucky Walters, who has won six and lost none, has the next highest total of 40.

Yesterday's game, which cost the Reds their undisputed title to first place, blew up in the last three innings. For five innings Paul held the Giants to three hits while Johnny Rizzo pounded out a double and homer to help the Reds to three runs.

Then the Giants tied it in the sixth on two singles and Harry Danting's homer. Bill Werber hit a four-bagger for the Reds in the eighth, but the Giants took it back with three more runs on four singles in their half.

Bucky Walters is out for his seventh victory today, with Prince Hal Schumacher getting the call from the Giants.

Two Games Separate Mid-Atlantic Teams

AKRON, May 23.—Only two games separated first and last places in the Mid-Atlantic league pennant chase today.

Akron cut Canton's lead to a half game last night by drubbing the Terriers 6 to 5. Jim Halperin, Akron hurler, was struck by a line drive in the fifth and forced to leave the game.

Portsmouth sneaked back into second place with a 5 to 4 victory over Dayton and last place Charleston made it three out of four at Youngstown by trimming the Browns 5 to 2.

Today's games: Akron at Portsmouth, Charleston at Canton, Dayton at Youngstown.
